

Summer Barbecue and Patio Safety Regulations

With the summer season approaching, the Nassau County Fire Marshal's Office has issued reminders to all residents that regulations exist governing the safe operation of charcoal and propane barbeque grills, propane heaters, and open pit or wood burning fires.

Due to Hurricane Sandy, there is expected to be an abundance of firewood which residents may wish to burn outdoors for recreational or cooking purposes. All residents are advised familiarize themselves with these safety regulations before undergoing any such activities.

By observing these important safety regulations, in addition to common sense safety precautions, residents and their neighbors will ensure a safe and enjoyable summer season outdoors.

Thank you.
